

being a black person in the U.S is a difficult exp. You catch sideways glances from hateful eyes, different judgement but even though it is hard being black is worth it because of community and love it fuels our soul-memories

Greeny